Halkin or Schwartz

1 pp. 321 - 63

321² virtually all publication in US journals

* 22³ diff in seeing them collected, rather than published serially

23⁴ Read as a whole, the duality/bipartism is discernible:

5 beauty in the moment & the awareness of the transience of 6 beauty w/in it

7 Double awareness of one + the same time

328⁸ crit of originality in early poems, which are sparse & begin w/
9 unconnected to the times

329¹⁰ to live life to its fullest together w/ ? → withdrawal,
11 rejection

27¹² ~~but~~ is for the worthwhileness of love is put in question by 13 pain it will come or by its eventual disappearance

14 masochistic ambivalence about beauty: can't let yourself
15 enjoy fully because of the awareness it will pass/end

31/32¹⁶ "zen" in 22'20 8320

32¹⁷ Absence of personal/autobiog dimension to his poetry
18 It interprets as sign of absence of plain personal pleasure &
19 satisfaction from his life + from the bio-worldly + temporal -
20 Can appreciate the personal & subjective only as an expression 21 of a value or attribute: the beautiful, the good, belief in 22 man, struggle

33²³ Avoidance/disinclination of the many messy & the crooked

74²⁴ Despite warm account of childhood in way, esp. re parents,
25 there is nothing here

838²⁶ (1970) 1970 1970 "n3" → 1970's 1970's

27 To Halkin reading his own dilemma onto Schwartz.

39²⁸ The beautiful is never sufficient unto itself

339¹ It's periodization: last. 08-39, during which only a $\frac{1}{3}$ of his ~~published~~ poetry is written, the poetry reflects a tussle back & forth bet. the two - after 59, the eternal/moral side is utterly dominant.
