

Feb. 23, 1978

My dear Dr. Raskas,

Several weeks ago, Shea Tenenbaum sent me a clipping from the Canada Eagle announcing a lecture to be given by you at the Jewish Public Library. I am naturally deeply interested in your topic, since it dealt with the work of my husband, Michel Licht, as well as that of Pludstein and Leykus, who were old friends. I wonder whether it would be an imposition to ask for a copy of your talk so that I could read, what I am sure, is an exceedingly interesting insight into their work and effect on modern Yiddish literature.

I am deeply touched by the continued, even though I think all too seldom, interest in Michel Licht's effect on modern poetry. During his last years, his integrity was undisturbed by neglect. He continued to work, for the most part without a public. So once again I thank you and look forward to reading with pleasure your words of wisdom.

Sincerely and gratefully yours,
Evelyn M. Licht

90 Lenox St.
New York, N.Y. 10027

UN 45370 #12H (259)

3:00 pm