Earliest Holiday Stories

1884

צ'ל'ק'ן / הר סיני

- sentimental love story / decline of the generations
- opens with comic action surrounding candle-lighting followed by sentimental scene with Feygale the orphan
- mish-mash of literary motives
- holiday as: organizing time element / measure of degeneration
- symmetry of children asking parent purpose of the candles (330-328 תש"ב) איו"ב וצ'ק

1888

1st person narrative of feuilletonist-wine merchant character vignettes of 3 "types" who come on to buy wine

1887

ע"ב איו"ב

[א' תמוז תרמ"ז] ...
 אד תמוז ...
 ...
 ...

begins with addressing the reader in mod. diction determined from childhood experience addressing "modern" reader who barely knows about the hater, thinks of it as purely satiric incorporates אֵלֶּיךָ יְיָ letter of אֵלֶּיךָ יְיָ written to his father-in-law then launches into rebbe's lengthy sermon on keeping the faith (sublime) → beating them on credit (ridiculous); moves them 1st to sentimental tears, then to tears of pain chap II very long description of their אֵלֶּיךָ יְיָ → decision to attack the אֵלֶּיךָ יְיָ

III - rebbe's mock-mythical sense: duststorm from their feet = אֵלֶּיךָ יְיָ decision not to attack the lone shepherd based on biblical precedent: he's not a Philistine, but one of the water-bearers or wood-cutters from among the rubble

IV ends w/1 of the אֵלֶּיךָ יְיָ boy dying from his wounds! All the others beaten by the rebbe

Holiday Tales

... (1915) same disclaimer: ...
... (1902) "v'huva"

(cf. 1906 ... similar story from child's perspective)

- another grotesque tale of 2 young Schnorrers
- their rivalry over hand-outs & over the one daughter (1903) [C...]
- growing enmity between them
- world of ritual = arena for posturing

- reminiscent of Dik
- one boisterous, one lame; 1 gregarious, the other introverted, etc.
- parallels the Magilla

סיפורים על הרגלים וכו', נראה ש...
 (190) סיפורים על הרגלים וכו' 15/15 1/12

- how is the Magilla diff from other

"Jewish" plots?

- common denominator: petty rivalry, stubbornness → catastrophic repercussions

1892 - 7/18 113 - abrogated ritual because of a strict sheriff

* 1892 7/18 113 - room full of nouvenik <sup>of</sup> ~~has~~ playing cards; not one knows what the holiday is about <sup>original</sup> ~~original~~ version set in NYC!! explained by Berkowitz in preface to 1892/1893 115

Genre of Holiday Tales

Origin

- supplementary readings from classical sources
- 'ye wessn; Apocrypha (in Hebrew, Yiddish)
- פאָרשן <see Shmeruk's bibliography of פ'סוקים '0123 >
- narrative as part of liturgical cycle is the legacy of sermon/midrash
- tid. narrative (epico too?) come into being as liturgical supplement

Ques. of Continuity

- to what extent do stories about celebration of holidays plug into same system?
- is the backdrop of childhood endogenous to reclaiming the ancient past?
- clearly a measure of the break instead
  - a) found in supplement to the newspaper
  - b) holding on to the story in lieu of the ritual of conjuring up a world of wholeness at a time of radical transition

Peretz's Yontef-bletkh = imp. stage

Folklore as Exoticism

Eygel, like Buber, like Bezalel, identify folklore w/ Orientalism / Hasidism as its truest expression

But those who come directly out of hasidic milieu & still must rub shoulders w/ it (Peretz, SA, later Singer, YIVO) look for secular manifestations

SA responds to upbeat message of Wershawski's songs; polkas & mazurkas are precisely the point; lachry & love songs

Not till 1960s could we reclaim hasidic soul music as our own

Meanwhile, the folk song Goldfischer & whatever else they could!

fictional geog: subjectivized reality (212) cf. Berk in Kasilevka 278 322 n.

11"21"3"1" 113 - Trunk sees it as archetypal 213 - 224

passengers force their story upon the listener 219

2 single fate binds them all → extraordinary intimacy

Children

rarely allowed to function free of adult world 320

children's stories ~~are~~ structurally more complex 325

SA = backbone provincial 324 lacked technical, philo. sophistication central theme of these stories: elemental life-force, reality ↔

abstract compensations of the adult world (329)

as opp. to Basil Melchukov, doesn't see maternal role as decisive (337)

Modern Contexts for Storytelling

Breakdown between Fact / Fiction

Peretz: strict differentiation between feuilleton & pure fiction
favors allegory, parable

SA : mish-mash of genres (Shmeruk, YSSK, p. 60)

incorporated current events into his stories, cycles

Shmeruk on "epic situation", i.e. hist. backdrop

Berkowitz shows how he visited all the immigrant stations for Notl or borrowed from US experience for YSSK

the novels are more "realistic", stories, too, have journalistic content cutting hist. down to manageable size > midrashic?

where midrash makes Scripture the anchor, SA makes "story"

SURROGATE STORYTELLERS

① Tag-line

- each seasoned narrator has his own signature
- if used sparingly for effect
- otherwise → parasitic  $\text{רע לרע}$  analyzed by Viner

② Scene of the Past

- Bernavitch - expert on Jew. suffering
- Crardo - intimate detail of how it used to be

③ Delights in surprising, manipulating his listeners

- cf. Howe's comments
- constantly vouching for its veracity

④ Capable of extremely complex tale: $\text{רע לרע}$ $\text{רע לרע}$ (204)

⑤ Long. balanced

- can use Hebrewisms, Slavicisms; master of dialects, zygots
- very witty; wordplay  $\text{רע לרע}$   $\text{רע לרע}$   $\text{רע לרע}$   $\text{רע לרע}$  (208)
- uses Jew. wds:  $\text{רע לרע}$   $\text{רע לרע}$   $\text{רע לרע}$

⑥ More worldly than not

- eg. narrator of Crardo was 1 of the players in the den of iniquity
- Howe: he's been around

Gogol & SA

Dobruskin : Kzsrilovke combines medieval Khelm-like setting / Gogolian grotesque

Erlk : Traveling salesman = Rudy Panko

Erlch : skaz

Hrushovski : both draw on pre-Enlightenment forms

Oystender : Sender Blank = Sobakevitch

Rebinovitch : "If Gogol can make a hamlet famous, why shouldn't I be able to immortalize Berdichev?"

Spivak : terminology of material culture > Dikanka prefaces

Monologue from Gogol & Lermontov's Notes of a Hunter (87)

Menshem Mendel & Akaky Akakievich (147)

I. J. Trank : Сказки overwhelmingly influenced by Gogol (41-47) disproportion of ego / social function

2 anecdote + grotesque ; fantasy mediates the grotesque

overcoat = goat

ending fails because he tried to out-Gogol Gogol

Asher Berlin : fad of European labels → SA = 2nd Gogol 15-16

had "Gogol" box ~~for~~ to keep his most recent work hair à-la Gogol ; displayed his collected works ; could imitate him (30)

1903/4 displaced by Gorky (37) only his portrait & Mendeleev's lamp in his room of Coventry - The 15th

As the stories (of the סו"ג פ'ס"ף) pick up speed within the train, the train itself slows to a halt, suspended in time, "going nowhere, fast"

Train has a leveling effect - robbing its passengers of all that is uniquely theirs

- Bel is acidic, full of hot air ↔ Priest is semi-verbal
- Noah Tonganok - like his biblical namesake, his role is to alert the Jews to impending disaster (Susan Lazer)
- pay 1 group of Jews gofin (Cossacks) to protect the Jews from another group of gofin

STASIS & CHANGE : The landscape is the same but the technology is disruptive ~~the~~ history is on the move ↔ yet it remains essentially a setting for pogroms & theological hatred

- a train which would be regarded...judged a shameful failure of efficiency & technology, is seen to possess extraordinary virtues in Bohopdi (Edith Post)
- Bohopdi, where necessity is the mother of perception/perspective
- they also live in a practical world of flexible belief
- no one (on the סו"ג פ'ס"ף) addresses the narrator w/ a private story - they all recount "traditional" narratives

Another semiotic clue of the Miracle Tales: an entire folk repertoire has already grown up around this train.

- underscores the alienation of the other pol'sho - people who have become so immersed in private grief that, while mouthing phrases in praise of God they lose connection w/ them & w/ humanity (Post)
- so the narrator is corrupted by his encounter w/ modernity so must the artist not immerse himself so completely in his art that he separates from the community & lose connection w/ essential values
- The Shame in "18 from P." is the failure of communication
- Barzovitch: the teller too is only fully engaged when he is telling the story
- Hoshema Ribbar: the Jew survives because he is mobile & flexible; the priest is illly threatened by modernity but too rigid to bounce back; Berl must win his verbal victory before he realizes that he possessed the practical knowledge to act his mental faculties alone allow him to adapt to changing situations (Greenblatt)

19) The 10th Man

Brilliant story-telling art: how the ultra-assimilated Jew who refuses to be 10th to a minyan is put in his place by 3 stories

Portrait of the grieving father = surrogate storyteller - for excellence master at kaddish!

20) Third Class
