Dear Mr. Roskies:

We received your letter of August 26, 1965, regarding the failure of our editors to make reference to Yiddish Literature subject in the article on the Fourth World Congress of Jewish Studies. We wish to reassure you that this does not reflect on any ideology.

Since the ISRAEL DIEGST is edited in Jerusalem we are forwarding your letter to the editors and we trust that you will receive the proper reply

Sincerely yours,

Mr. David Roskies,

Dear Sirs,

Your letter of August 26, to the Israel Digest New York, has been passed on to me.

I can assure you that the failure to mention the section on Yiddish Literature at the World Congress of Jewish Studies was not due to any prejudice of "Ideology." You will understand how difficult it is to compress the proceedings of such a wide-ranging conference into the limited space at our disposal.

We have given in the Digest news of events in Israel connected with Yiddish literature, and I regret the omission on this occasion.

Yours sincerely,

Misha Louvish, Editor
